8 Understand the tides and cliffs on this coastline, for your safety

8.1 Tides

The beaches and shoreline along this coast are tidal. This means that they are covered by the sea at high tide and this needs to be planned for so that you do not become stranded.

The tide also comes in quickly as the Bristol Channel has the second highest tidal range in the world and can reach heights up to 13metres.

Daily tide times are written on the Pavilion noticeboard

How the tides work?

High tide has taken place you need a minimum of 1.30hours after high tide to walk on the shoreline.

If high tide is approaching, you need a minimum of 4 hours prior to high tide time to avoid being trapped eg if High tide is 2pm you need to be going on your walk at 8am to undertake Walk 2.

If in doubt, please ask as your safety is our priority.

8.2 Cliffs

The cliffs along this stretch of coast are made of fractured Jurassic Limestone. This means that they are liable to crumble. Rocks can fall off the cliff at any time and under any weather conditions. For your own safety, DO NOT go to the edge of the cliff and DO NOT sit directly below the cliff, stay at least 30 metres away from the base of the cliff.

POINT 1 Llantwit Major

The town's name in Welsh, Llanilltud Fawr, and is derived from the name of Saint Illtud, who came to the area from Brittany, Gaul. He founded the monastery of Illtud and the college attached to it, Cor Tewdws, which would grow into one of the most esteemed Christian colleges of the times. At its peak, it attracted over 2000 students, including princes and numerous eminent clergymen, some now revered as saints. Destroyed by the Vikings in 987, the monastery was rebuilt in 1111 and continued to be a centre of learning governed by Tewkesbury Abbey until it closed in 1539 during the Dissolution of the Monasteries. The 13th-century St Illtyd's Church, built near the ancient monastery, is today a Grade I listed building and one of the oldest parish churches in Wales.

There is a slipway onto the beach for easy access to the sand. The slipway may get covered from time to time with pebbles, it is next to the stream at the end of the car park.

POINT 2 Llancarfen – 8.1 miles
Medieval wall paintings

The church of St. Cadoc at Llancarfan is the focus of this small and charming village in the heart of Vale of Glamorgan. The village sits 8 miles from St Donats.

The church is open to visitors between 9am and 5pm 365 days year. Individual and group visits are most welcome.

In 2005/6, we had the roof of the South Aisle at St Cadoc's renewed and as part of that exercise some of the Wall Plates, which had been destroyed by Death Watch Beetle had to be replaced, during this some of the lime wash knocked off the wall and a 'Red Line' was found beneath, which indicated that there was almost certainly a major wall painting beneath, as we already knew from somewhat amateurish exploration previously that the wall was definitely painted.

As the Church is a Grade 1* listed building we had to employ conservationists to come and investigate, so, it was that in early 2008 Jane Rutherford and Anne Ballantine came to Llancarfan to investigate.

It was on Shrove Tuesday 5th February 2008 that they found the most amazing start of George and the Dragon which was below over 20 coats of lime wash and from there on until this October work has continued to expose the most extraordinary series of Wall Paintings.

George and the Dragon is one of the finest paintings of its kind anywhere in Great Britain, if not Europe, but we also have the most marvellous 'Death and the Gallant' which I understand is unique, coupled with this the Seven Deadly Sins in most excellent condition and then on the opposite wall the Several Acts of Mercy, which whilst not in good condition are certainly worth seeing.

Lastly, we have uncovered not just one doorway into the 'Roode Loft' but two, also paintings which would have been a background to the 'Roode Screen' above the Chancel Arch, all in all a panoply of Mediaeval Art which is not found elsewhere, making St Cadoc's Church the most important and marvellous ecclesiastical site in the Vale of Glamorgan.

POINT 3 Cowbridge - 7 miles

The market town of Cowbridge in the Vale of Glamorgan. Most of Cowbridge High Street and little allies off are lined with little independent shops. For a morning coffee, brunch or a great place for supper.

The Cowbridge Town Hall, a building whose foundations date back perhaps as far as the Elizabethan era, served as a prison until 1830, when it was converted into a town hall to replace the former Guild Hall, demolished at that date. The New Palladian Town Hall was built in 1830 by Isaiah Verity of Ash Hall who in gratitude was made a Freeman of Cowbridge. Eight of the original prison cells are still intact, six of which house the exhibits of Cowbridge Museum. The museum holds archaeological finds from Cowbridge and district, as well as displays on the later history of the town, including industrial and domestic artefacts, a photographic collection, and a small historical costume collection.

POINT 4 Dunraven Bay (also known as Southerndown)

Please read safety information about tides and cliffs on this coastline in section 8 of this information booklet.

a) How to get there:

By Car – see on the Map

Walk - Approximately 4 hours* Follow Walk 2 and continue until you get to a cove with a lifeguard hut, you are there. You can get the 303 bus from the Three Golden Cups pub on the main road to get back to St Donats, 800 meters from our site.

Dunraven Bay is arguably the most scenic of the numerous idyllic beaches in the Vale and is certainly the most popular with the locals. The drive or walk to the bay is right on the cliff edge and has the type of dramatic drops that will make your heart shudder. Although the beach is officially called Dunraven Bay, it is also called Southerndown beach. The half pebble, half sand stretch is nicely secluded and has impressive surf due to the eastern Atlantic offshore winds. If you fancy a good walk and less people, try going through the large gate in the car park and walk along the Glamorgan Coastal Path past the ruins and gardens of Dunraven castle to the next bay. The views are wonderful and there is plenty of space when the tide is out to sit and relax.

Beaches

Geologists love this rugged stretch of the Glamorgan Heritage Coast. Around 300 million years ago, a continental collision caused its limestone cliffs to be pushed up out of the sea and contorted into striking formations of stacked rock. This is one of the best places in Wales to hunt for Jurassic fossils including large bivalves (Pinna), Gryphaea (Devil's Toenails) and ammonites. Ichthyosaur bones have also been found.

POINT 5 Ewenny Priory

Distance 8.5miles

Abbey Rd, Bridgend CF35 5BW

How to get there:

Bus 303 towards Bridgend – get off at end of Abbey Road

Car CF35 5BW

Ewenny Priory, was a monastery of the Benedictine order, founded in the 12th century.

The priory was unusual in having military-style defences and is widely regarded as one of the finest fortified religious buildings in Britain. Over the centuries the priory has sustained some damage, and following the Dissolution of the Monasteries in 1536, was, like many of its kind, converted into a private house, Ewenny Priory House, which is still inhabited by its current owners, the Turberville family. The priory is not open to the public apart from the church, The priory was founded in 1141 by Maurice de Londres when he granted the nearby Norman church of St. Michael to the abbey of St. Peter at Gloucester (now Gloucester cathedral), together with the churches of St Brides Major, St. Michael at Colwinston and the manor at Lampha. The church had been built in the 12th century by his father, William de Londres, one of the Norman knights of Glamorgan. The village of Ewenny grew around the Priory and church.

Transept of Ewenny Priory, Glamorganshire

J.M.W. Turner

The church is a Grade I listed building, the house is Grade II Although Turner had made only a quick drawing of the interior of Ewenny Priory on his first tour of South Wales in 1795, he was clearly fascinated by the place, for its bold Romanesque architecture and mysterious atmosphere. He developed the first modest study, in his Smaller South Wales sketchbook (Tate D00472; Turner Bequest XXV 11) into an important watercolour, shown at the Royal Academy in 1797 (National Museum Wales, Cardiff).

POINT 6 Ogmore Beach / Mertyr Mawr Dunes

Please read safety information about tides and cliffs on this coastline in section 8 of this information booklet.

Distance 9.5 miles

How to get there:

Sat-Nav Mertyr Mawr Car Park

Ogmore is a sandy beach backed by the dunes of Merthyr Mawr Warren on the west side of the Ogmore river. Parking is at a Pay and Display car park pleasantly situated in a wooded glade next to the ruins of Candleston castle; a 14th century fortified manor house. A small wooden hut houses male and female toilets. The car park can be reached by following the lane through Merthyr Mawr village, with its delightful thatched cottages.

Access to the beach is a walk of about a $\frac{3}{4}$ mile across the dunes of Merthyr Mawr Warren, which are a popular training area for joggers and local sports clubs. This dune system is a maze of paths and there are numerous possible routes to the beach, so if you're not familiar with the area follow the route marked with red discs. The largest sand dune in Europe, known locally as the Big Dipper is just to the south of the car park.

This museum has been Wales's most popular heritage attraction for many years. It holds a special place in the hearts of the people of Wales. This is because St Fagans is a people's museum, where we explore history together through people's everyday lives.

Entry to the Museum free, thanks to support from the Welsh Government.

Since 1948 over forty original buildings from different historical periods have been re-erected in the 100-acre parkland, among them houses, a farm, a school, a chapel and a splendid Workmen's Institute.

At St Fagans you're invited to explore the story of Wales, to shape it and share it with others. In the galleries you can do this in different ways – through play, sharing online or by making things yourself by hand. The galleries have been created with the help of numerous individuals, organizations and communities across Wales

Traditional crafts and activities bring St Fagans alive, in workshops where craftsmen still demonstrate their traditional skills. Their produce is usually on sale. Native breeds of livestock can be seen in the fields and farmyards, and demonstrations of farming tasks take place daily. Visitors gain an insight into the rich heritage and culture of Wales, and the Welsh language can be heard in daily use amongst craftsmen and interpreters.
